A fleet of vintage cars was all that was needed to transport the streetscape back to the 1930s.

Relations deteriorated to the point that Mexico paid for its own counternarcotics operations from 1993 through 1995, under President Carlos Salinas.

The dolls sold by Beatrice cost around 300 to 400 euro but some rare pieces have reached a value of several thousands of euros.

Thanks very much for doing the research.